State Preliminary Key Scenario

Cassie is a sales representative for Professional Business Associates. During a family vacation, Cassie traveled to an area that had a recent spike in contagious viral infections. Upon returning from vacation, she did not self-quarantine or report to her employer that she had traveled to this area. Another employee in Cassie's department reported to you that she saw photos on her social media of her vacation to the "hot spot."

News of a contagious viral infection has recently been reported. Due to the need for quick action, Professional Business Associates had communicated some general guidelines about self-reporting and social distancing and is currently working on a formal policy.

As the Director of Human Resources, how would you address this situation with Cassie? Use the Human Resources Manual as a guide.
