Job 4: Report

Use the following information to create a one-page report using the current date. The report is from Julie Smith to Edna Renick. The title of the report is Using Microsoft OneNote. Please correct any spellings and grammar errors as you prepare your final draft.

A great software that provides ease to organizing data, notes, and so much more, Microsoft OneNote offers its users the option to keep word procesed, snipped and cut, copy and paste material orderly in a notebook fashion. It's the old concept of a notebook but in a digital format.

Great Features

There are many features that you can use in Micosoft OneNote. These features allow the user to create beautiful organized content for any project. Some of these features are listed below.

1. Seperating files into binders or by content and use color coding to help organize files.
2. Easily cut, copy, and paste features from online sources and organize as you do research.

We recommend using the software in any company or business setting. The software comes as part of the Microsoft Suite that your company purchases directly through the Microsoft Exchange program.

Implementation of Software

OneNote is so easy to sue. The average Word user should have no problem using this software and begin creating organized content. We suggest implementing through project management and see how managers can be creative. OneNote is the software that will replace all those hand written notes and become the binder of content in a digital world.
