JOB 1: Table. Create a table with borders in portrait orientation that will provide a list of the top 10 cities in the U.S. that Digital Solutions (title) is looking at to open a satellite office (satellite office options is the subtitle). Use the following data below to create the table. The following column headings should be used: city, state, metro population, median home price, and average annual salary. For the state column, use the 2-letter state abbreviation. At the end of the table, insert another row. Merge the first four columns and enter total average annual salary then insert a formula in the last column that will display the average annual salary of all ten cities. Sort the table by the last column from lowest to highest. Autofit the state column, autofit the city column, then autofit the table to the window. Print a copy of the table and then print an additional copy with the formula showing.

San Francisco, California, 4,709,220, $1,047,714, $81,840

JOB 2: Memorandum with table. Key the following memorandum using your Style & Reference Manual. Correct any spelling and punctuation errors you find.

This memo is to be sent to the following department heads: information technology, administrative support, marketing. It is from Nancy Wells. Use today's date, the head of the financial services department should be copied, and the subject is possible expansion cities.

Memo information:

After several months of research and deliberation, we have decided to inform department heads here at digital solutions which cities we are considering for our possible satellite expansion.

As you can see from the table below, we looked at numerous factors to help us determine which areas would be the best fit for our company. Currently, we have narrowed our search down to the following cities based on metro population, median home price, and average annual salary.

Insert table from job 1 without the Digital Solutions and Satellite Office Options headings

We are looking for feedback from department heads on any other factors we should now consider that would narrow this list down to less than 5 by Jan 2. Please email me any questions you have or elements that need to be ruminated so that I can share them with our entire team.

JOB 3: Itinerary. Key the following itinerary using your Style & Reference Manual. Correct any spelling and punctuation errors you find.
